ALPINE RACING s.a.s RENEWS PARTNERSHIP WITH MECACHROME

Mecachrome, the French group specialising in precision mechanics, and Alpine Racing s.a.s., have signed a contract for the manufacturing of major components and the assembly of the V6 engines that will power Alpine F1 Team's cars on track.

This four-year contract will allow Mecachrome to maintain an active role in motorsport and Alpine Racing to continue to rely on a long-standing partner.

The contract entails a range of services including the provision by Mecachrome of a dedicated production batch for the development and fabrication of cylinder heads, cylinder crankcases, timing-gear and cylinder head housings as well as the assembly services for the race engines in the FIA Formula 1 World Championship.

Mecachrome thereby continues its historic collaboration of more than 20 years with Alpine Racing.

"We are very proud of the renewed confidence shown by Alpine Racing. Thanks to new investments to support this development, the Mecachrome teams continue to be deeply involved to contribute to the success of this project", said Christian Cornille, Mecachrome CEO.

"Working with a historical partner like Mecachrome is an asset in our project to return to the highest level of F1. Continuity is a strength in this ultra-competitive and ever-changing sport. We have a lot of success stories to look forward to together", added Laurent Rossi, Alpine CEO.
